Title (EN):

Assessing the health situation of national minorities in Sweden

Abstract description (EN):

The Swedish government commissioned in June 2008, the Swedish National Institute of Public Health (SNIPH) to assess the health situation of national minorities and elaborate adequate public health strategies to enhance the health situation of national minorities. Results from this assessment take into consideration health differences between women and men among national minorities. National minorities in Sweden are Sami who are also recognized as indigenous population of Sweden, Jews, Tornedalers, Roma people and Swedish Finns.
